Energy Conservation and Efficiency

Energy efficiency markets are ramping up quickly in Pennsylvania, and are expected to experience tremendous growth over the next few years, as business and residential consumers seek to control their energy consumption and cost. This seminar will include information on both emerging business opportunities associated with current market growth, as well as information for businesses seeking to become more energy efficient. Whether you are seeking to enter the new markets or become more energy efficient, the Smart Energy Initiative of Southeastern PA has resources to share with partnering companies!
